This joyful piece of art was the brainchild of the wonderfully talented Amy Goins, based on the art work of Ann Wood. The fourth graders each used gouache on watercolor paper to make their own unique and vibrant palette. Horse patterns were traced onto the paper and cut out. 308. A SUITE OF PRINTS BY LORENZ OKEN

Lorenz Oken (1779-1851), was a German naturalist, philosopher and physician. A prolific writer, his masterpiece and lasting legacy to the world is the 13-volume "Naturgeschichte fur alle Stande" (Natural History for all Social Ranks), first published in 1831. Oken's research and theories laid the foundations for the development of "cell theory" which is explored in the 6th grade's science curriculum. After reviewing forty potential candidates, votes were cast and these eight prints were selected by the class as their donation to Hill School's "Deutschland" Auction. From jellyfish to mushrooms, they illustrate the breadth of life forms that Oken was inspired by. It should come as no surprise that the print receiving the highest number of votes includes our very own Hill School mascot, the stately lion.

403. A CIVIL WAR REVOLVER

Tonight we have a Civil War Colt Brevete Model 1851 Navy Percussion Revolver. Known as the Colt 1851 Navy or Navy Revolver, it is a cap and ball revolver that was designed by Samuel Colt between 1847 and 1850. Colt first called this Revolver the "Ranger" model, but the designation "Navy" quickly took over. It remained in production until 1873, when revolvers using fixed metallic cartridges came into widespread use. Famous "Navy" users included Wild Bill Hickok, John Henry "Doc" Holliday, Sir Richard Francis Burton, Ned Kelly, Bully Hayes, Richard H. Barter, Robert E. Lee, Nathan B. Forrest, John O'Neill, Frank Gardiner, Quantrill's Raiders, John Coffee "Jack" Hays, "Bigfoot" Wallace, Ben McCulloch, Addison Gillespie, John "Rip" Ford, "Sul" Ross and most Texas Rangers prior to the Civil War. These revolvers saw extensive use during the American Civil War by both sides and throughout the West afterwards. This gun, Serial number "199355," has a 7 1/2 inch barrel, original wood grip panels with iron frame and backstrap and an overall original finish. Perfect for the collector!

406. A CIVIL WAR CAVALRY SABER

A beautiful Sheble & Fisher, U.S. Model 1840 Civil War heavy Cavalry Saber and Scabbard, measuring 41 inches overall with a 35 inch blade. Ricasso struck "Sheble & Fisher/Philada." Undated, but probably pre-Civil War Manufacture or early war period. These sabers were of exceptional quality of steel as the war period made ones were rushed for obvious reasons. The M1840 was designed for slashing and because of its heavy flat-backed blade was given the nickname "Old Wristbreaker." It was adopted due to the Army's dissatisfaction with its predecessor the model 1833 Dragoon saber, the first cavalry sword adopted by the US Army. These sabers were carried extensively throughout the U.S. Mexican War through the American Civil War. It was replaced by the slightly easier wielded Model 1960. An ornate gilded version of this earlier sword was used by General Philip Sheridan during the Civil War; Sheridan had its sheath engraved with the battles he participated in. The saber on display this evening has an extra-fine blade with extremely nice markings and most of the original polish and light patina. Unpolished guard with superb 100 year old patina that could not be recreated if cleaned or polished. Original gripwrap. A very nice example, and the brass is particularly good, and it is serial numbered on two places on guard.

411. VINTAGE BEER STEINS

Collectors, we have something for you. A handsome collection of iconic German Beer Steins, ranging in age from the late 19th to mid-20th centuries. This collection includes earthenware relief forms and elegant glass styles with porcelain inlays. These Beer Steins will make quite a statement when displayed in your home. Your steins come with an authentic German Sled. Historical note: The bubonic plague or "Black Death" spread across Europe in the years 1346-53, killing 50 million people, or 60 percent of Europe's entire population. In its aftermath, many public health regulations were passed. By the early 1500's, several principalities in what is now Germany had passed laws requiring that all food and beverage containers be covered. Mugs were soon protected with a hinged lid and thumbflit that still allowed the container to be used with one hand. "Stein" is a shortened form of "Steinzeugkrug," the German word for stoneware jug or tankard.
